

Data protection

Welcome on our website and thank you for your interest in our services. We take the protection of your personal information very seriously and it is important to us that you feel comfortable visiting our website. We're not collecting nor processing personal data.

1. Processing of personal data

Personal data means any information relating to an identified or identifiable natural person ("data subject"). An identifiable natural person is one who can be identified, directly or indirectly, in particular by reference to an identifier such as name, etc.

Personal data will not be collected and thereby not processed. The use of contact details published due to legal obligations, like mailing addresses, phone or fax numbers, and e-mail addresses, by third parties for the purpose of sending information not explicitly requested is not permitted. We expressly reserve the right to take legal action against senders of so-called spam mails if this interdiction is violated.

2. Information shared with third parties

As personal information are not required nor stored, an information share is impossible.

3. Referrals and links

The author is not responsible for any contents linked or referred to from his pages - unless he has full knowledge of illegal contents and would be able to prevent the visitors of his site from viewing those pages. If any damage occurs by the use of information presented there, only the author of the respective pages might be liable, not the one who has linked to those pages. Furthermore, the author is not liable for any postings or messages published by users of discussion boards, guestbooks, or mailing lists provided on his page.

The author hereby expressly states that at the time of setting the link, there was no evidence of illegal content on the linked pages. The author has no influence on the current and future design, contents, or copyright of the linked pages. Therefore, the author dissociates himself explicitly from all changes concerning the contents of linked pages that were made after the pages were linked.

4. Copyright and trademarks

The author aims to observe the copyright of any graphic, sound files, video sequence, or text in all publications, to use his own graphics, sound files, video sequences, or text, or to make use of royalty-free graphics, sound files, video sequences, or text.

All trademarks and brands mentioned on this website, including those protected by third parties, are without limitation subject to the provisions under the respective law on trademark and related signs and the rights of the registered copyright holder. The sole fact that such trademarks are cited should not be deemed to indicate that they are not protected by third party rights!

The copyright of published data of any kind created by the author solely belongs to the author of the website. The duplication, reproduction, and use of such graphics, sound files, video sequences, and text in other electronic or print media is not permissible without the express prior consent of the author.

5. Collecting common data

13. Access to personal data

You can find out if and what personal information we hold about you, upon request and free of charge. Please inform us of any incorrect data concerning your person, so that we can correct, lock, or delete it. If you have further questions relating to our data protection policy, please do not hesitate to contact us.

Data subjects have the right to obtain from the controller confirmation as to whether or not personal data concerning them is being processed, and, where that is the case, access to the personal data and the information outlined in article 15 of GDPR.

Data subjects have the right to obtain from the controller without undue delay the rectification of inaccurate personal data concerning them, as well as to have incomplete personal data completed.

In addition, data subjects have the right to obtain from the controller the erasure of personal data concerning them without undue delay where one of the grounds outlined in article 17 of GDPR applies, e.g. if the data are no longer necessary for the purposes for which they were collected (right to be forgotten).

Data subjects have the right to obtain from the controller restriction of processing where one of the conditions outlined in article 18 of GDPR applies, e.g. where the data subject has objected to processing pending the verification by the controller.

Data subjects have the right to object, on grounds relating to their particular situation, at any time to processing of personal data concerning them. The controller shall no longer process the personal data unless the controller demonstrates compelling legitimate grounds for the processing which override the interests, rights and freedoms of the data subject or for the establishment, exercise or defense of legal claims (art. 21 of GDPR).

Data subjects have the right to receive personal data concerning them which they have provided to a controller in a structured, commonly used, and machine-readable format. Data subjects have the right to transmit those data to another controller without hindrance from the controller to which the personal data have been provided, where the processing is based on consent or on a contract (art. 20 of GDPR). This right shall not apply if the processing is necessary for the performance of a task carried out in the public interest, the rights and freedoms of another person are affected, and the transmission would not be technically feasible.

Data subjects have the right to withdraw consent at any time where processing is based on a consent (according to art. 6 paragraph 1 a or art. 9 paragraph 2 a of GDPR).

Data subjects have the right to be informed of the possible consequences of failure to provide the personal data.

Without prejudice to any other administrative or judicial remedy, every data subject shall have the right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority if the data subject considers that the processing of personal data relating to him or her infringes the GDPR (art. 77 of GDPR). The data subject can lodge the complaint with a supervisory authority in the Member State of his or her habitual residence, place of work, or place of the alleged infringement.

If the purpose of personal data processing changes, further information will be provided by us.

14. Legal validity of this disclaimer

This disclaimer is to be regarded as part of the internet publication which you were referred from. If sections or individual terms of this statement are not legal or correct, the content or validity of the other parts remain uninfluenced by this fact.

15. Changes to our data protection policy

In the event of current developments we shall – if necessary – update this privacy policy statement. We reserve the right for errors and changes.
